

Redirection of domestic mail

What the service offers

Jersey Post's Domestic Redirection service lets you have your domestic mail delivered to an alternative address within Jersey, the UK or internationally for up to two years. The cost simply depends on the length of the redirection, the redirection destination and the number of different surnames involved. Please note that we can redirect mail for someone who has died or for whom you have power of attorney.

Please note that you must have recently lived at the address from which you are redirecting mail. To redirect mail without the authority of the addressee is a criminal offence.

What happens next... step by step

- Complete the attached form to give us the details of your redirection request. Please note that, by submitting an Application Form, you are agreeing to the Terms and Conditions relating to the services which are set out in this leaflet.
- The Application Form should be submitted to: Customer Services, Jersey Post, Postal Headquarters, Jersey, JE1 1AA with the payment for the Service and the documentation required in section 4 of the Application Form.
- The application must be received by Jersey Post at least ten working days before the redirection service is required to commence.
- Once Jersey Post has processed and approved the application, Jersey Post will send written confirmation that the redirection service has been put in place.
- Jersey Post will write to the applicant offering to extend the Service approximately two weeks before the redirection is due to end. At the end of the redirection period, all mail will be delivered as addressed by the sender.
- To make any changes to the redirection once it has been set up, the applicant should contact the Jersey Post Customer Services Team on Tel: 616616.
